Federal Authorities Agree to Store Carillon in Gloucester
Edifice While Tangle Is Fixed

Gloucester, April 13.—The Portuguese church at Our Lady of the Good Voyage has been designated as a bonded warehouse of the United States and every member of the congregation is happy.

The action was taken in order that a set of bells imported from England might be stored in the church rather than in the Federal Custom House, pending decision as to whether they shall be bonded or not.

Members of the congregation have been working for years to obtain the bells. When $15,000 was finally raised the bells were ordered in England, and were received here some time ago.

Custodian officers, however, decided that they were dutiable, whereupon the congregation was in a dilemma as to where to find the same.

Members discovered, however, that a private individual or corporation might be designated as a bonded warehouse of the United States, and

Boy on His Deathbed Writes Essay and Expires

Worcester, April 13.—Dying in City Hospital from pneumonia, Philip G. Adams, seventeen years old, a pupil at the High School of Worcester, composed himself up on his pillow and wrote a four-page composition on "The Storm." He died this in an attempt to keep up his standing in class. Three hours after finishing the composition he died. School teachers say his work was exceptional.

This law was invoked on behalf of the creditors, the congregation gave a $15,000 and the bells were brought here, where they will be housed when a tower is constructed.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives has passed a motion to suspend the duty. The measure is now in the Senate calendar.

They took seats in the Senate gallery, but when the strikers arrived they were all picked from the gallery and driven to the corridors outside the Senate lobby.

Slain Flier Buried With Wife's Ashes in His Hand

Washington, April 13.—Army aviators dropped flowers on his grave when Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Ward Beck, slain by Judge Day in Oklahoma, was buried with full military honors at Arlington. He had frequently carried the same roses for other fliers.

His nose and namessake, and other fellow officers, stood at attention as the body was lowered into the grave. In the right hand of the dead aviator was held the same containing the ashes of his wife, who died last August.

At his wife's request Colonel Beck had planned to scatter her ashes from his plane over an old mission house in Omaha, where their romance began twenty-five years ago. He was to have done this last month on the anniversary of their marriage.

RADIO FANS GET FINAL SCORES EARLIEST

Boston American Adds Another Feature to Late News Broadcast

By A. B. HOAG.

Fifty thousand baseball fans scattered throughout New England listened last evening to the final scores of all the major league baseball games.

These scores were flashed out to the Amrad Broadcasting Station at Medford Hills by the Boston American just as soon as the final results came over the wire. At the Amrad Station they were sent out over a radius of a thousand miles and thousands of fans were able to know the results of the games many hours before they appeared in any Boston newspaper.

At 7:45 o'clock every evening during the season these scores collected by the Boston American will be sent out from the Amrad Station. This service marks still another step in the development of radio broadcasting in New England.

NEWS FLASHES CONTINUE.

The beginning of the broadcasting of late news flashes collected from all over the world by the Boston American can and received in Boston too late for any of the Boston papers marked another step in this development. The news flashes will continue and will follow the baseball scores in the broadcast.

These broadcasts, together with the baseball scores and the late news flashes, can be caught by means of the free radio phone receiving sets being given away free by the Boston American, provided that you live within fifty miles of Medford.

Get a line, you baseball fans, and take advantage of this free offer. One of the best features of the super-sensitive radio phone receiving sets are given away to you at a comfortable in your home, stick the earphones over your ears, adjust the instrument, and listen to the ball game hours before you can see them in any newspaper.

ONE IN EVERY HOME.

Realize this: you will be able to get in on one of the greatest things in history. The spectacular advance and development of radio is beginning to be recognized as one of man's greatest achievements and the day is not far off when every home will have a radio set in it.

The Victor super-sensitive radio phone sets complete with phones are sold for $18.50. They are free to everybody who brings in twenty new monthly subscriptions to the Boston American.

Full particulars on this wonderful free offer will be given cheerfully at the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, or No. 228 Devonshire street, Call early and get your blanks.

DIFFICULT TO GET.

Remember that radio sets are difficult to get at any price. Stores are unable to get enough anywhere near to supply the trade, and factories cannot begin to keep up with the demand. The Boston American has enough to supply everyone who brings in twenty new subscribers.

Miss Edna Crovo, who is the assistant booker at the American Feature Film Company, and who is also by way of being a baseball fan, declared that she would never be without a radio phone set after she was shown one of the Boston American free sets.

The instrument was adjusted for her and she was enabled to hear the baseball scores being broadcast from Medford, then then Medford, to Madame Leveroni, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company, as she sang operatic selections.

ENTRANCED BY VOICE.

Miss Crovo was entranced at the beauty of the singer's voice as it was carried, as if by magic, twenty miles through the air from Medford.

"There is none of the mechanical sounds in radio," she said, "that are apt to mar the best of photographs, and it is a thousand times clearer than the ordinary telephone."

ANOTHER VICTOR FAN

Q—I have a single-slide, five-point, variable tuning coil, crystal detector, fixed condenser, variable condenser, phono, a single wire antenna, 12 feet high, but cannot get anything with the outfit.—F. C. N., Pittsfield.

A—Look for open and short. Several crystal detector diagrams have been published in this column. Have you a condenser in series with the antenna circuit? Remember that a crystal detector is unreliable on distances over twenty-five miles, and if you live in Pittsfield, you are too distant from either Springfield or Schenectady to get either one consistently.

Q—Phase and the name of houses who handle or manufacture wireless novelties including traveling dogs and dolls.—W. E. S., Rutland, Vt.

A—So far as I have been able to find out, these articles are not regularly manufactured anywhere. The exhibition which is to be put on at the coming exposition is the work of an individual for experiment only. If you wish the latter's name, address "Boston Radio Exposition," 98 State street, Boston.

Q—I am very much interested in obtaining radio receiving sets such as you diagram and explain in the American. What would be the cost of such a set all ready set up? Is there any reason why an amateur would not be able to get results if he put the parts together at home? Can I get copies of papers in which you describe the erection of the aerial, the lightning switch and the lightning ground?—W. J. K., Scituate, Vt.

A—It is difficult to say how much a set already wired would cost. There is no reason why a beginner could not wire such a set. Old copies of the Boston American may be secured at the Central Bureau, Mount, Fifth Floor, Boston American.

CARDINAL OPPOSES

QUEBEC EQUAL SUFFRAGE
 Quebec, April 12.—Cardinal Beaudry has authorized the prohibition of a letter last week last March, opposing woman suffrage in the Province of Quebec. The letter, written while the cardinal was attending the sacred convocation at Rome, was addressed to Monsignor P. E. Roy, auxiliary bishop of Quebec. "The city of women into politics, even by the vote alone," the cardinal wrote, "would be a misfortune for Quebec. It is not justified by the law of God, neither by natural right nor by social interests. The Roman church does not approve our views which are shared by all our episcopate."

SUFFOLK TO HAVE MORE ON LEGAL STAFF

Governor Cox signed the bill authorizing the district attorney of Suffolk to appoint four additional assistant district attorneys. The terms of the officials would expire on the first Wednesday of January, 1923. Two of the officials would be paid a salary of at the rate of $3,000 a year and two at the rate of $4,000. The legislation was asked for by District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien of Suffolk, because of the great amount of business that has accumulated in the office of the district attorney because of the proceedings brought against former District Attorney Pelletier.

How U.S. Royal Cords Compete for Business

HERE are nearly 200 tire manufacturers who would like very much to sell your car-owning neighbor his next tire. This interests him but mildly.

Price arguments are thread-worn. Claims and promises have the same old ring.

The makers of U.S. Royal Cords do not claim to be exempt from the great law of competition. But it is their firm belief that the time is here for a new kind.

No manufacturer and no dealer can much longer evade the challenge of progress.

The competition taking shape today was forecast many years ago in the U.S. Policy—the policy that makes U. S. Tires, at today's prices, the biggest money's worth any motorist ever rode upon. What is this new kind of competition?

It is the working for more and more public confidence—for higher and higher quality—for still more constant public service.

The car-owner can vision for himself the benefits of this kind of competition.

No one welcomes it more sincerely than the makers of the U. S. Royal Cords.

For the production of United States Tires there is erected and operating the greatest group of tire factories in the world. A leadership that has recorded itself with the public. The outstanding example of what faithful quality and sound economy can do when it is patient enough to prove itself to a whole nation.

COX PROBES SALE OF GUNS BY MAIL

Asks Illinois if Its Law Permits and, Order Houses if It Is Possible

Governor Channing H. Cox has written to Governor Low of Illinois, asking whether the law of Illinois permits the sale of firearms through the mail, and also to the principal mail order houses, asking them if pistols and revolvers were sold on mail orders.

A copy of the letter sent to the mail order houses follows:

On March 27, 1922, several young men attempted to hold up an automobile in the city of Boston and fired a shot at it. The boys were caught, and one of them who proved to be sixteen years of age, stated that he had got the pistol from a mail order house in Chicago for $7, which he sent through the mail. He made the purchase because of an advertisement which he had previously seen. "I cannot believe that responsible business houses which have enjoyed the confidence of the public would lend themselves to any such purpose as providing young boys with firearms. It is against the law in Massachusetts for anyone to carry a pistol or revolver unless licensed to do so by the police. We are trying to put a stop to the illegal use of revolvers and pistols here in Massachusetts and desire every co-operation to that end. Will you be good enough to inform me whether it is possible to purchase revolvers from your firm on mail orders?"

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Easter Sales Fill Time of Smart Set During Week

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

MRS. ALLEN CURTIS of No. 51 Beacon street was among the prominent passengers sailing yesterday for Havre on board the French liner France. A host of persons well known in social and professional circles were booked for the same trip, including Mrs. M. Orme Wilson and Dr. Adolph Loring.

Miss Grace Thayer, the artist, of Boylston street, is spending a few weeks in New York, where she is making her headquarters at the York Club, of which she is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sumner Welles (Father Slater), who are sojourning at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., recently gave a dinner at the Greenbrier for the Chilean Ambassador, Don Beltran-Mathieu, and Senora Mathieu.

The Spring tennis tournament starts at White Sulphur Springs next week, and already the courts are filled with practice players, while others arrive daily to take part.

Those who sojourn at Newport during the summer will be interested to learn that the Spring renovation of the Casino is well in hand, preparatory to the opening of the season on May 1. One of the biggest improvements about the grounds is the enlargement of the space reserved for tennis.

Howard Conoley is among the Bostonians stopping in New York, where he is a guest at the Fitz-Carion.

A group of prominent matrons and young women are arranging a Springtime sale to be given under the auspices of the Brookline Girl Society on April 27 at the home of Mrs. William Almy on Warren street, Brookline.

Mrs. Homer L. Bigelow, Jr., of Chestnut Hill was one of the younger matrons helping at the Easter sale given for the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. The sale was arranged and attended by members of the smart set.

MRS. HOMER L. BIGELOW, JR.

By BETTY ALDEN

TRULY has there been no dearth of Easter sales this week, as the most casual glance at the social calendar will reveal. Following closely upon the heels of the affair held on Tuesday in aid of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters at Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs' home on Beacon street comes the sale today at No. 665 Boylston street, the proceeds to go to the South End Music School.

Today's sale, which opens at 10 and closes at 6, is in the hands of a prominent committee drawn from the ranks of the smart set—for the South End Music School has never lacked the interest and sponsoring of society. Among the matrons and young women working for the success of the sale are Mesdames William Ellery, Sewell Cabot, Daniel de Menocal, Frederic Gabor, Richard Hale, E. Solner Welsh, Lovell Little, Gaspar Whiting, Thomas Thacher, Richard Widworth, Ellerton Whitner, as well as the Misses Annie Endicott, Nourse, Margaret Perry, Evelyn Sears, Louise Basely and Emily McKibbar.

Those in charge recently announced the arrival from China of a gift box from Mrs. Roland Clough, who is now visiting in Pekin. The articles in this box, which contained the most fascinating bits of jewelry and curios of the Far East, will be put on sale early and are expected to find ready purchasers.

Besides a particularly tempting candy table, there will be a booth devoted to bread and pastries and another to cakes.

Apocryphal of sales—tomorrow there will be a sale of Easter flowers in the Radcliffe shop on Boylston, while on Saturday a group of society folk are in charge of the Roman flower market, also in aid of the Radcliffe endowment fund, which will be held in Copsey square. Another sale for Saturday of this week is the bread and cake sale for the benefit of special work of the Needlework Guild of America, the affair, with a distinguished patronage, to take place at Mrs. James M. Newell's home on Commonwealth avenue.

keen pleasure the recital of original character sketches which Ruth Draper will give in Jordan Hall on Monday evening in aid of the Beneficent Society of the New England Conservatory of Music. The famous monologist will find many of her friends seated before her in the fashionable audience on Monday night.

Miss Draper's program for the occasion will be made up entirely of original sketches, the numbers including "A New York Factory Girl," "In the Park in a Maine Coast Town," "Three Breakfasts," "A Scotch Immigrant at Ellis Island" and "At the Court of Philip the Fourth of Spain."

Miss Draper does not visit Boston any too frequently, but when she does come here, her audiences are always capacity ones, so that a very large as well as fashionable gathering is expected on Monday evening.

The list of patronesses for the event reads very much like so many pages of the Social Register, and is far too long to be printed in full, but among those who have lent their names to the affair are Mesdames Gordon Abbott, Andrew Allen, William Almy, John S. Ames, Charles F. Ayer, Horace Binney, Dwight Blancy, Charles H. Bond, Manfred Bowditch, Gorman Brooks, H. Addington Bruce, George D. Burrage, Harold J. Coolidge, Allen Curtis, George B. Dalney, George L. DeLoria, Richard C. Dyer, W. Arthur Depee, George R. Fearing, Charles H. Fiske, Allan Forbes, Eugene H. Fox, Wallace Goodrich, William H. Goodwin, Paul Hamlen, Amor Hollingsworth, Edward J. Holmes, Clement S. Houghton, Watson Johnson, Charles A. Kidder, Horatio Leach, William Cates Loring, William S. H. Loring, George S. Mumford, Robert Treat Paine, Hunter Robb, Eudocia P. Saltoun, William H. Secum, Todman P. Sudding, Albert Thorneike, Robert Ward, Thomas R. Watson, Frederick S. Whitwell, George Scott Winslow, Alfred Winsor and Philip Wren.

HARDING BACKS DRIVE FOR RILEY MEMORIAL

Indianapolis, April 12.—President Harding in a telegram read at its opening of the drive for approximately $5,000,000 for the erection of the James Whitcomb Riley Children's Memorial Hospital here today expressed gratification at the proposed memorial to the "Ripper poet." Secretary of Labor Davis was the principal speaker at its opening session.

Ostrich Skins

A large herd of ostriches was killed in California during the war. It was necessary because the owner could not procure the grain needed to feed such earnest eaters.

The skins of these birds were purchased by one of the largest and best manufacturers of leather goods in this country. They found that this leather had an unusually fine grain and was a soft brown color which blended beautifully with gold mountings.

Pocketbooks, hand-bags, card-cases, cigarette-cases, and other leather novelties were in such demand that the California ostrich skins were soon used. So this manufacturer sent to Africa and had skins shipped here in the raw state to be tanned and finished.

Leather goods for personal use such as mentioned made of ostrich skins are unusually attractive. We suggest them as Easter gifts for both men and women.

THE OLD AND THE NEW SHOEMAKER SHOP

People think a whole lot about their shoes—but perhaps not enough about the Shoe Repairman

IMAGINE, for instance, what your shoe bill would be if the shoe repairman were not always ready to put fresh life into the family's worn shoes.

New soles, new heels, new welts. No job too small to get his careful attention. Hardly a pair of shoes so badly worn but he'll make them almost as good as new—at a fraction of the cost of a new pair.

Perhaps there is a further service he might be doing yourself and his other customers.

Higher standards in rubber heels. Three out of four of his customers ask for rubber heels.

Until you have tried both kinds, you cannot be expected to know the difference between everyday rubber heels and the U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heels.

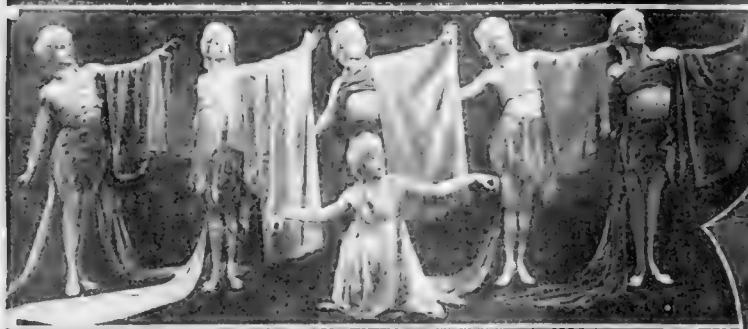

But your shoe repairman should know—and he should

THIS ORANG is said to outlast the best of the monkey family. A member of the Philadelphia zoo, it can do almost everything except talk. He is enjoying his mid-day glass of milk.

NEW ENGLAND GIRLS lead the fashion at Hot Springs! Miss Roberta Willard, left, and Miss Constance Glendonning, both of Newport, "on parade" at the Hot Springs, attired in the last word in sport costumes. Silk sweaters and satin skirts are featured.

DON'T Set Up a Costly Radio Aerial! Just use your umbrella or sunshade. That's what Miss Madeline Bates of Framingham advocates for girl radio fans. Put your receiver in your pocket-book.

RUCE AND POWDER is barred at the New Jersey State House! Our own State House girl workers don't worry about a ban. Why? Because they don't use rouge or powder. Just to prove it here are Miss Cecile O'Connell and Miss Rita Kallala, both foes of cosmetics. Natural beauty lasts longest, is their belief.

HOW WOULD YOU like to grow a foot a day? Gosh, think of the growing pains. The bamboo in the groves at Anderson, So. Carolina, grows just a foot a day. Attain growth in 30 to 40 days. (International News Reel.)

IT'S ALL GREEK TO US! Elisabeth Raynes of No. 42 W. Emerson street, Melrose, an Amelia Earhart pupil, grows the darn out Melrose way with her "Dance of the Vase." A charming scene from her interpretation.

THE GOVERNOR PUTS ANOTHER ONE OVER! The perennial opening of the baseball season in Boston wouldn't be complete without Nick Flattery and the Governor. Mr. Cox, who is here showing during the first ball at the Red Sox Athletics game at Fenway Park, flings a mean curve. He enjoyed the game, but that doesn't mean he was glad that the Red Sox lost. And it also doesn't mean that he was a bit surprised.

"P'N HIMSELF, THE SIMPLE SHEPHERD'S AWE-INSPIRING GOD!" Miss Dorothea Dunn of No. 248 Newbury street, Boston, says the Spring is symbolical of Pan, so she can't help pondering in the dance. If you happen to be a milkman or a sun dodger perhaps you'll see her some morning gambling in the Fenway.

SHE COMES UP SMILING—AND DANCING! Pretty Peggy Marsh, former Chelms girl, has danced in and out of courts against the Marshall Field estate for, in these many years, but she's shaken lawyers for dancing partners and has taken on her husband, Albert Johnson, with whom she will make her stage debut as a dancer in New York. Solve This Mystery, if You Can

"A gallery gave access to the main rooms on the first floor, and the butler made for the spacious drawing-room, which had three windows facing west and two north. All of these opened on to a balcony, protected by a wrought-iron railing. The door was situated near the south wall."

"Men, lying on the floor—three were crumpled awkwardly across a long dining-room table. Sixteen young men, all in evening dress, all apparently seduced with alcohol, and quite insensible."

"Then the butler sniffed, not willingly. It is true, but rather with an air of an expert testing some suspected compound."

"That's neither champagne, nor whiskey, nor brandy, nor any liqueur that I know of," he muttered. "I wonder what it can be?"

"In a large glass bowl, nearly filled with water, and standing on a high, but narrow, round table, was a plump goldfish, floating on its back—quite dead."

"The butler was thoroughly scared now. He hurried to the upper end of the room and knelt by his master's side, lifting his head and speaking to him."

"Wake up, Mr. Van Cortland!" he said, quite loudly. "Wake up, sir! It's nearly half-past seven."

"The sound of his own voice was almost affrighting. It seemed wholly out of place in that room of awe. Then, as gently as he had handled the goldfish, he lowered Van Cortland's head to the rug, for his young employer would not wake up in this world. He, too, was dead. There was no doubting it. Eyes, mouth, lips, were eloquent witnesses of the great silence."

"After a pause of breathless horror, the butler nerved himself to conduct a hurried examination of each of the remaining occupants of the room. He assured himself that they were alive, but insensible. They reminded him of men under the influence of an anesthetic, and the conceit added to his distress. Pulling himself together, in the manner of one accustomed to military drill, he stepped over the body of one of the revellers, and stretched a hand toward a decanter half filled with liqueur brandy."

"But he drew back."

"No," he muttered. "That won't do. This is no time for Dutch courage. God only knows what will happen if I make a mistake now. I must keep my head clear until this affair is out of my control for good and all."

"Again he glanced around the room. Beyond the raising of the blinds and the quickly abandoned effort to restore Van Cortland's consciousness, he had literally touched nothing, he assured himself. Nothing, except—"

"My Jingo!" he said. "I am forgetting the goldfish. Poor thing. Why should it have been killed, too?"

The representative of the Boston Post who was sent to examine Mr. Tracy's original manuscript, declared this to be "The best detective story I ever read, without an exception." The Post feels that the very great sum paid for "first publication rights" was an excellent investment.

SIDELIGHTS ON OPENING CONFLICT OF SEASON

By CHARLES E. PARKER

The focus is proud of them, however, if their actions at the official flag raising serve as an indication for while every other person in the audience removed his hat while the band hit up the national anthem, the Red Sox players allowed the flag to remain on their heads.

The opening exercises seemed hardly in need of rehearsing. The parade to the flagpole was started with a band of brass and a band of drums. The Red Sox players, who were defeated in the first game, were looking for a comeback.

KING OF SWAT SORELY PEEVED OVER FANCIED IDLENESS

RUTH RAPS FEWSTER, SAYS HE COULD HAVE WON FOR YANKS

Washington, D. C., April 12.—For the first time in my life I attended the opening game of an American League season as a spectator. Seated with Colonel T. H. Huston and Ben Johnson, I saw the Yankees defeated by the Senators, and wondered what the result might have been if I had been playing first base.

I believe that I could have done better than the regular first baseman, George Foster, who was out of the game for the first time in his career. I believe that I could have won the game for the Yankees.

I believe that I could have won the game for the Yankees. I believe that I could have won the game for the Yankees. I believe that I could have won the game for the Yankees.

Fewster Made Shift Too Late to Save Game

This was the first time that I had seen George Foster play. He was out of the game for the first time in his career. I believe that I could have won the game for the Yankees.

SPOILING THE BEANS

The old home run season is at hand and big Babe Ruth isn't the only guy in his class.

There's a small army of home runners—but they're not getting away with it like the King of Swat even though they are breaking their necks to hang up a few records.

In this great land where all men are created free and equal it only seems fair and reasonable that the ball fan should get his share of the breaks.

He can't get them unless the baseball moguls speed up the game—get them away on time and keep them going.

The fans are all anxious to get out to the old suburban bungalow and on time for a hot meal which makes for peace and happiness all along the line.

Friend wife might also join the royal rosters which means new and added life to any sport, especially the great diamond game.

It is up to the men behind the pastime to adopt the early game plan.

Then—no more late suppers and angry wives.

SHE was a plain girl, and she looked it. And her hair was always dull, lifeless, hard to do up—and worst of all, full of dandruff.
And then a hairdresser told her the secret that soon made her really attractive with hair that was soft, wavy, easy to do up, and entirely free from dandruff.

You, too, can use that secret at home and make your self truly lovely.

A Powerful Story of Romance, Marriage, Temptation and the Triumph of Unselfish Love

Alix tries to console Peter after Cherry's marriage, not suspecting that he ever cared for her. A scene from "Sisters," a new motion picture.

Most of his courting was done in a small car from which Anne saw him of the valley that she had seen before.
She was a little shy about introducing her admirer to her uncle, but she turned in her dilemma to Alix. Alix had never seen Peter, but she was not surprised by the news she brought. Alix had never seen Peter, but she was not surprised by the news she brought.

Another Blow
"Uncle," faltered Anne, "I want you to meet Mr. Little."
"Well, he's the man who's asked me to marry him. If you'll give your consent."
"That means," said the old gentleman, "I'm going to lose you, too, Anne."

asked the girl as she plucked along the road.
"Oh, nowhere—no Anna's gone and done it."
"It seems like a very nice man," ventured Alix.
"What do you hear from Cherry?"
"She's as happy as a lark," said Alix.
The man made no reply. "Can't we scare up a romance?"
Alix smiled.

Peter smoked on with a shake of the head, they were climbing the mountain side and from a cleft in a high rock came pouring a stream stirring the ferns that grew beneath and burying itself beneath them.
Over a ledge a small bridge. Alix paused and joined her hands together as though to dive into the white foam of the pool far below.
"Oh, Peter," she cried with mock agony, "suppose I were to leap and end my life because you had scorned my love?"
"Don't be humorous, Alix; at times, I'm something to tell you. You, that's why you're unusual today!"
"You're not going to tell me you're engaged?"
He shook his head, not noticing the note of fear in her voice. "No, I'm not. I'm going away on a trip—expected to be gone a year or so."
